1. An estimated 80 to 100 single-engine jet planes are stationed at the Soviet airfield at Deutsch Wagram, lower Austria. Several twin-engine jet planes have also been observed there recently. the twin-jet craft are being used exclusively for night flying exercises. 25X1 25X1
2. A radar station mounted on a three-axle truck is located at the Deutsch Wagram airfield. As far as could be observed, this radar unit is regularly in operation during night flying exercises and its location is frequently changed.
3. An increase in night flying has been observed at this airfield in recent weeks. During early February, the airfield was reinforced by an anti-aircraft unit employing six guns similar to the German 88 mm. Several new searchlights have also been added. 25X1
